ESCAPED CONVICT IS CAPTURED BY SHERIFF NEAR OHIO BEACH

Jesse Mills, bold Portsmouth Robber, Who Broke Jail in That City Few Days Ago Is Caught in Small Boat Going Down Ohio Near Here.

About six o'clock Monday night Deputy Sheriff Harry Dunham and an assistant traveling in a motor boat down the Ohio river in search of the three men who broke jail at Portsmouth on Thursday night of last week, arrested one of the men, Jesse Mills, when Mills was floating down the Ohio just below the North Shore beach on the opposite side of the river.

Mills was traced by the Portsmouth authorities to near Rome, Ohio, where on Saturday night he is said to have broken into and robbed a residence. He was traveling down the Ohio river in a small red John boat. This boat with its one passenger was seen to pass down the Ohio past the East end of the city about 10 o'clock Monday morning and it is supposed he landed at the local wharf and remained here until about 3 o'clock, when he pulled across the river and on the Ohio side he traded his red John boat for a larger one, in which he was traveling when arrested. He was seen about the North Shore beach about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon by a resident of the Ohio side who came to Maysville in his skiff. When the Ohio gentleman landed on this side he was met by the Deputy Sheriff, who was traveling in a motor boat. He described the escaped convict and the Ohio man told of just passing him below Aberdeen. The sheriff struck out in his gasoline boat and soon overtook Mills and placed him under arrest returning in the motor boat to Portsmouth with him.

Mills has a reputation of being a professional robber having been in the Portsmouth jail for having robbed a jewelry store in that city several weeks ago. The other two prisoners who escaped with Mills from the Portsmouth jail are still at large and an effort is being made to locate them in this section, it being thought that they too might have come in this direction. They were not traveling with Mills, however, who was making the trip down the river by himself in a small John boat which he is supposed to have stolen in the Rome neighborhood.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, South, will meet Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock with Miss Anna Shackford.

MISS LLOYD WILL MEET MISS CLAY IN DEBATE AT LOUISVILLE

Two of Kentucky's Most Prominent Women Will Debate Suffrage Cause at Democratic State Platform Convention — Maysville Woman Represents State Organization.

Miss Alice Lloyd, of this city, one of the recognized leaders in the Kentucky Equal Rights Association and one of the most brilliant women in the state, has been selected by that association, due to the enforced absence of Mrs. Dasha Breckinridge, president of the organization, from the state on account of illness, to represent the organization at the Democratic State Platform Convention in Louisville tomorrow.

The Equal Rights Association is sending a representative to the convention because of the selection of Miss Laura Clay as a delegate to the convention, which means that she will oppose the adoption of a plank in the Democratic State Platform for the ratification of the Federal Suffrage amendment, Miss Clay being the original woman suffragist favoring the states handling the suffrage question and opposing the question as a national issue.

Miss Lloyd will represent the State association in answering Miss Clay's arguments and in offering arguments favoring the ratification of the Federal amendment.

This debate will probably prove one of the most interesting features of the Platform Convention for two of Kentucky's most brilliant women will meet in debate on a question which is now one of the biggest in the nation. Miss Lloyd is honored very highly in being given this important assignment.

SERIOUS CHARGE IS BROUGHT AGAINST DOVER MAN; IN JAIL

Will Adams, Aged About 40 Years, Is Under Arrest Charged With Contributing to the Delinquency of a 14 Year Old Girl—Girl Ran Away But Is Caught.

Deputy Sheriff C. M. Devore Monday evening brought to the county jail here Will Adams, a well known Dover resident, having arrested him early in the evening at Dover on the very serious charge of contributing to the delinquency of a female under 16 years of age.

The complaint was made against Adams by Louis Daniels, another resident of Dover, who charges that Adams has been too familiar with his 14 year old daughter, Edith O. Daniels. The girl's mother died some time ago and she has been keeping house for her father until a few weeks ago when the Daniels home burned.

About 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon the girl was seen to go over the river bank at Dover and had been missing from her home since that time. The disappearance of the girl caused considerable commotion in Dover and it is said Daniels went out on the search of Adams with a revolver in his hand. The two men met on the street and Daniels stopped Adams with the revolver. They had considerable argument but no shots were fired or blows struck. Later in the evening Sheriff Devore arrived with the warrant against Adams and placed him under arrest.

A search was instituted in Maysville for the missing 14 year old girl. Her father came here to lead the search, it having been reported that she left Dover with a soldier. The search extended in all parts of the city and was continuing when at about 1 o'clock this afternoon a telephone message was received by Chief Ort from the Marshal of Augusta saying that the girl was being held by him in that town. She will be brought to Maysville this afternoon and will be used as a witness in the case.

Adams insists that he is innocent of any charge made against him and that he has at no time been guilty of mistreating the girl in any respect.

The case has created much excitement and interest in Dover and it is expected that many will be present here at the examination which will be given Adams before Squire Fred W. Bauer Thursday morning.

The defendant remains in jail in default of bail. He is a married man with one child but he and his wife are not living together, there being a divorce suit filed by the wife now pending in the courts.

NEGRO WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY AND GETS ONE YEAR

Emma Wilson Pleads Guilty to Robbing Chinese Laundry and Is Sentenced to One Year in Penitentiary—Other Court News of the Day.

The Mason Circuit Court got right down to business this morning when the petit jury reported for the term and several criminal cases were finally disposed of during the day.

Probably the most important case disposed of was that against Emma Wilson, colored girl, charged with robbing the local Chinese Laundry several months ago. It will be remembered that a "strong box" which the laundryman kept in his money was broken open and over $40 in cash taken. When the woman was arrested at the local depot just as she was about to make her get-away, the most of the money was found on her person.

When the indictment against her was read, she entered a plea of guilty and the jury fixed her punishment at confinement in the state penitentiary at Frankfort for one year.

In the case against Al Rowland, indicted for deserting infant children, on motion of the Commonwealth the charge was reduced to failing to support infant children and the law and facts being submitted, he was fined $20 and costs.

Raymond Prince, indicted for gambling, entered a plea of not guilty and the case went to trial. The jury found him guilty and fixed his punishment at $20 and costs.

James Fryman, indicted for stealing from a common carrier, had his charge reduced on motion of the Commonwealth to taking away personal property and the law and facts being submitted he was fined $50 and costs.

F. A. Simons, who was indicted on two counts for forgery, was not present in court and his bonds of $100 in each case were ordered forfeited.

In the case of Elmer Emmons, charged with stealing from a common carrier, the charge was reduced to carrying away personal property of another and the law and facts being submitted, he was fined $100 and costs.

Joe Chancellor, indicted for having liquor in his possession for the purpose of sale, paid a fine of $75 and costs when the laws and facts were submitted.

Den Hamilton was tried on a charge of gambling, found guilty by the jury and a fine of $20 and costs was assessed.

There are but few criminal cases to be disposed of and they will all probably be finished before the close of court Wednesday when the civil docket will be started. The Grand Jury will begin their work Thursday morning and will probably return several more criminal cases for trial this term.

WHEAT ACREAGE INCREASED

Midway, Ky.—All the earliest crops of tobacco have been cut and housed and a more hopeful view of the crop has been taken since rains. Much of the spotted appearance has changed, especially on the later settings and some feel hopeful of half a crop at least.

Much plowing for wheat is being done and tractors are used on some farms to great advantage. It is surmised that a larger acreage of wheat will be put in this fall than was sometime ago predicted. It is hard to get first class seed to sow, as most of the grain graded No. 2 seed will come high.

The True Story of Houstonia Liniment

A Remarkable Narrative, Telling How This Great Healing Antiseptic Was Discovered, Its Merit Proven and Its Benefits Extended to Millions of People.

Nearly half a century ago Doctor W. G. Jones, then a resident of Chillicothe, Ohio, found that the necessity in his practice for a liniment which was at once soothing, healing and antiseptic was being met, with surprising results, by a compound which he had originated for alleviation of pain—for cuts, sores, wounds, bruises, strains, burns, etc.

The continued use of this antiseptic liniment for many years proved conclusively to Doctor Jones that he had hit upon a really wonderful liniment—something out of the ordinary in liniments in first, that it was antiseptic and, second, that its application did not burn, smart nor blister even the most delicate skin.

ITS FAME SPREADS.

The fame of Jones' Liniment and the wonderful results it had accomplished spread to almost every household in Chillicothe and even beyond the confines of Doctor Jones' home town to the surrounding country, from whence came many calls for Jones' Liniment to be used for the many purposes within its remedial limits.

The original Jones' Liniment is composed entirely of soothing, healing oils, the principal one of which can be procured from but one source. It is practically unknown to medical science and can be obtained in no other liniment.

After many years of successful practice, Doctor W. G. Jones retired from active service and moved to Columbus, Ohio, where he now resides. However, the Doctor's son, Doctor J. C. Jones, who had followed the professional footsteps of his father, saw in this old-time remedy wonderful possibilities for elevation of pain and suffering, and begged leave to use Jones' Liniment in the market, thereby making it available to more sufferers than could be reached within the practice of any one doctor.

Doctor J. C. Jones then gave up his position as a member of the faculty in the University at Athens, Ohio, and moved to South Charleston, Ohio, where he continued his practice and, at the same time, started the Doctor J. C. Jones Company for the manufacture of the liniment which had proven so successful in the practice of his father, as well as himself.

HOUSTON BECAME INTERESTED

It happened that a few years ago Mr. Foster B. Houston of South Charleston, one of the hard-working men in central and southern Ohio, became, through a strange circumstance, particularly interested in the merits of Jones' Liniment.

It seems that Mr. Houston's son had quite seriously injured one of his hands. Infection set in and arrangements were made for a visit to a Columbus specialist. However, before this trip could be made, the infection became so pronounced that immediate relief became necessary and in this emergency a bottle of Jones' Liniment was brought into service, the remedy applied and the hand bound up.

The result was almost immediate relief from pain, and the subsequent visit to the Columbus specialist disclosed the fact that in the short time the liniment had been applied the infection had entirely disappeared and no heroic measures were found necessary for the complete and healthy healing of the wound.

Although essentially concerned in enterprises paralleling his vast farming interests, Foster B. Houston is a keen, far-sighted business man.

Therefore, not only did the saying call for it by its new name, "House-ton-e-ah" (The Original Jones' Liniment made only by Dr. J. C. Jones Co., S. Charleston, Ohio.

GROCERS ALLOWED 2¢ SUGAR MARGIN OVER COST, ETC.

Trade Confused Because of Conflicting Statement That 11 Price Will Be Insisted Upon, Some Suffering Loss Thereby.

(The Interstate Grocer) The grocery trade is considerably wrought up over the confusing situation that has been injected into the sugar price situation because of the announcement from Washington that the jobber should not charge more than ten cents a pound and that eleven cents should be the limit charged by the retail grocer. In the same announcement there appears the statement that the jobber will be permitted a gross profit of 68 cents a 100 pounds and that the retail grocer is entitled to a margin of one to one and half cents.

The confusion lies in the fact that most retail grocers cannot sell at eleven cents a pound and make any profit for the reason that most of them have been paying eleven cents or more for their supply. The confusion is increased, especially among the timid dealers by statements issued by United States district prosecuting attorneys. As an illustration, District Attorney Hensley of St. Louis gave out a statement Tuesday to the press in which he said retailers who charged more than eleven cents for sugar may have their licenses revoked.

He further went on to quote from the official Washington statement by Attorney General Palmer, as published in The Interstate Grocer last week, that the grocer is justified in asking his profit where the sugar cost him more than the ten cent price at which the jobber was supposed to charge. Hensley, however, failed to mention that fact and as a consequence retailers were scared to the point of selling sugar at eleven cents regardless of their cost in order to avoid possible difficulty with the government.

Retailers' Right Explained

The injustice of these half truths statements has intimidated many retail grocers into losing money. A number called The Interstate Grocer office on the telephone during the week and asked their right in the premises. All were informed that they are within the bounds of Palmer's statement if they sold sugar at 11 cent and a half pound profit over their cost regardless of what it was. That means if they paid eleven cents and the freight was 25 cents a hundred pounds, the cost was 11.25 cents and they could sell at 12.75 without violating Attorney General Palmer's injunction not to exceed a cent and a half profit, even though their selling price was 11 cents more than the maximum of eleven cents which he named.

The retail grocer, in other words, can disregard the eleven cent price and add the maximum profit of a cent and a half to whatever he pays for the sugar, plus the freight as in the case of grocers in the country. The eleven cent maximum is the price to the consumer cannot be insisted upon for the reason that it is inequitable and would allow one retail grocer more profit than another, depending on his location from the source of supply, owing to the fact that some grocers would not have to pay any freight while others would be called upon to pay as much as a dollar a 100 pounds and sometimes more.

DEMOCRATIC HYPOCRISY SHOWN BY CROWTHER

New York Member Goes After Party Opponents and Exposes Six Years Record.

Washington, September 2.—"When I hear a Democrat raving and ranting about special interests being identified with the Republican party, I am reminded that at no period in the history of the nation have special interests been coddled and bowed down to as during the past six years of Democratic rule," said Representative Frank Crowther, of New York, to his colleagues in the House.

"They declared themselves in 1911 as 'Jack the giant killer,' in regard to trust busting, but in performance they have struck to a 'hop o' my thumb.' The old high cost of living was also to have its fangs removed, but under six years of Democratic economic policy its sting is as virulent as ever. Read the Democratic campaign literature on this subject in 1911 and 1912, and, if you have not entirely lost your sense of humor, you will laugh yourselves to death."

"Let me refer to the aspersions cast upon the Republican side of the House to the effect that their sole accomplishment has been the appointment of several 'smelling committees' and growling at the President. On the Democratic side there is a long record of failure of accomplishment that even the excuse of the war, which they continually used to hide behind, can not erase. They felt secure in the fact that criticism of their dilatory tactics might be turned to their own benefit by charging with disloyalty everybody on the Republican side who dared to suggest that the Democratic Congress was not the absolute savior of the nation.

"The Democratic party was returned to power on the plea that its candidate for President would keep us out of war, a war into which we were finally driven by a vision of what might be the horrible fate of our mothers and sisters and daughters and wives at the hands of the brutal Hun. The motive now ascribed for our entry into the war is highly altruistic, but let me ask you how many sons of the United States have laid down their lives without ever having heard of much less considered, the fourteen points.

"I have travelled on trains with the returning soldiers, I have visited at the training camps, I have fraternized with them at the hospitals, and I have found from their conversation that they went forward alone to demonstrate to the world that the idea that had apparently seeped into the minds of the European nations that we were 'too proud to fight' was, in their estimation, a stain on the United States which these boys desired to wipe out forever."

Be sure you ask for this fine old liniment by its new name. You pay less and receive greater money value. You get the old, tried, trusted and true antiseptic liniment when you call for it by its new name, "House-ton-e-ah" (The Original Jones' Liniment made only by Dr. J. C. Jones Co., S. ROLE IN "THE HELL CAT" IS GERALDINE FARRAR'S BEST

Geraldine Farrar comes to the Pastime Wednesday in "The Hell Cat", second in her series of Goldwin Pictures. The international celebrity promises to acquit herself magnificently in this production, every scene of which was made in the heart of the Wyoming Rockies.

In "The Hell Cat" she is Pancha O'Brien, the daughter of a sheep raiser, and is half Spanish and half Irish. She loves and hates with equal abandon. Jim Dike, a cattleman, covets Pancha. She will have none of him, however, because she loves Sheriff Jack Webb. Dike determines that this shall not stand in the way of his desires. Again and again Pancha rebuffs him.

After he has shot O'Brien during a raid on his ranch, Dike approaches Pancha. The girl offers furious resistance, fighting Dike off until she is finally exhausted and blood streams from her mouth. Then Dike blindfolds her to his horse and takes her to his lonely ranch.

His squaw dashes off to tell the sheriff of Pancha's plight and when Jim Dike and Pancha later leave the ranch ostensibly to go East, a posse surrounds the buggy. Dike lurches forward from his seat, a dagger in his heart. Pancha proclaims herself his slayer and unworthy of the man she loves. Pastime Wednesday, September 3.

CHILDREN TO BED AT 8

Frankfort, Ky.—Strict enforcement of the curfew law will be made by Chief of Police Managan beginning tonight. Children under fifteen years of age will not be allowed on the streets after 8 o'clock, unless accompanied by a parent or guardian or on an authorized errand.

Mayor Rosson and Chief Managan are of the opinion that the welfare of the children and the city demands that there be no more loitering on the streets after 8 o'clock.

The past few days have been unusually cool and damp, with a slow drizzling rain much of the time, but not enough to start the streams or to furnish moisture for crops, and cold nights have retarded vegetable growth and development of all kinds.

THE GALLANT SCARECROW AND THE GOLDEN GIRL'S GARDEN

Being the Story of What Happened At the Magic Moment of Noon, or No Time, When the Sun is Just at the Midway Point of His Journey, and the "Really Realness" of Things Comes Out, Just as It Does at "The Witching Hour."

(Written for the United States Scare Garden Army, Department of the Interior.)

PART II.

The loveliest smile fittered across the Scarecrow's face as the old Apple Tree stirred its branches and let a beam of sunlight through.

"Oh, yes. Folks call me Scarecrow!

It's all right, perfectly honest business, but that name doesn't tell the whole story. The Golden Girl called me the Garden's Guardian Knight. I like that better. Makes the work worth while to think of one's self that way. The Soldier Boy said I was a Soldier of the Soil. You see they walked in this garden very often, in the spring and early summer before he went away, and I learned a great deal from them, and they talked, too, of the children's great army and a man, who aided the children, called Secretary of the Interior.

"Every bit of time he could get on leave away from the camp the boy came to see her, you know. Their conversations were very improving. They used some v-e-r-y pretty words; very! You see they were well, they thought a great deal of one another. I could tell that.

"The Soldier Boy made me. He made me very wonderfully. I'm jointed and put together in a very skillful way. I'm not exactly an ordinary scarecrow, and I'm not doing ordinary work. I'm soldiering here, keeping guard over the legions of life, against the forces of destruction. He said so, and she looked at him with dew in her golden eyes. He used to say her eyes were goldens panes, dark-velvety, with golden lights, and he called them Heart's-Ease-Eyes. Oh! It was great to see and hear 'em, the pretty things."

"He carved on the pumpkin-head my very expressive features."

(Here the Scarecrow winked, and a little breeze ran like a laugh through the Apple Tree leaves, and a saucy bird giggled, "Te-hee-hee-eel!")

"He put on me this suit of clothes I wear. They're tannish, you know, and really quite like khaki. This raincoat is quite like a real soldier's. Isn't it?"

(The Scarecrow looked at me wistfully, as if he hoped I'd say yes. I did so—with my eyes.)

"Of course, it isn't a real soldier one, but it's like it in color and it's buttoned around very niftily—eh, wot? This wooden helmet, too, is all right for a Garden Knight—eh, wot? He carved it. And this wooden gun? He made it. And she—bless her—she gave me my heart. O-o-h, yes! I've got a heart all right! Isn't he a dear?" she said. Then she threw her arms lightly around me, and where she leaned against me I could feel a fluttering under the bosom of my raincoat, and I've felt it ever since. That's how I know I've got a heart.

"I've got sense, too; for, you see, my head came out of a garden. It's a pumpkin which the Soldier Boy bought from a little soldier of the U. S. S. G. A. out near the camp, a pumpkin left over in the hayloft last winter. Blu-u-u! Fierce cold winter, I seem to remember!"

"Folks make fun of pumpkin-heads, as they call 'em. Why, pumpkin-heads are just chock full of sense! My head, now—why, it's just crammed with sense, garden sense!"

"Oh, I almost forgot. You see my canvas leggings? He used to wear 'em when he went out surveying before he got to be a soldier. Many's the woods and outdoor places he's tramped through in 'em, winter and summer. Why, even they, my canvas leggings, are soaked in the nature secrets. Even they can tell stories when the speaking hour comes for creatures and for things!"

RELATIVES OF VETS ARE GIVEN REDUCED RATES

Any relative of an Old Confederate Veteran is Entitled to Railroad Rate of 1 Cent for Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., September 2.—Any relative of a Confederate veteran, even if the veteran is dead, may secure the rate of one cent a mile to the Confederate reunion in Atlanta October 7-10. It was stated here today by N. B. Forrest, reunion general secretary.

Eligible for the rate are all Confederate veterans and members of their families, all members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and all Ladies of the Confederate Memorial Association. All sponsors and maidens—in fact, anyone who is connected with the reunion in any official way—can get the cheap rate.

In the case of sons or grandsons of Confederate veterans, they must be members in good standing of a Sons of Veterans camp in the south, before the certificate of eligibility will be given them. Others may procure the certificates by communicating with their camp, departmental or division commander, or with Mr. Forrest, at reunion headquarters, Room 602 Chamber of Commerce building, Atlanta.

These certificates must be presented when tickets are purchased. The wide range included in those eligible is taken to mean that almost anyone in the south can get the rate, for nearly everyone in the south is related to a Confederate veteran or had one among his ancestors. Those who are not sons or grandsons of veterans, but are more distantly connected, are yet eligible for the rate.

Applications for certificates being received daily at reunion headquarters indicate that hundreds of special trains will bring the visitors to Atlanta. As is always the case for the reunion, the railroad administration will make up special trains from all parts of the country. Texas will send two specials at least. Oklahoma two or three, New Orleans a number, and so on. During the Washington reunion in 1917 the special trains arrived at the Pennsylvania station at the rate of one train every eight minutes for twenty-four hours. Almost as many are expected for the Atlanta reunion.

AMERICAN BOYS WORK ON ROADS IN SIBERIA

Tales Told By Witnesses Who Testify of Brutalities to House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Washington, September 2.—As the result of a resolution introduced by Representative William E. Mason, of Illinois, parents have been given an opportunity to protest to the House Committee on Foreign Affairs against the retention of their boys in the army to fight for vague and indefinite causes in Siberia.

Eight thousand of these youths are being kept by Secretary Baker in the northern Asiatic wastes in an effort to subvert a government against which the United States has not actually declared war and to fight a people which was until recently our ally. Nearly half of these are from the Sucker State. They are not only made to fight, but are also used as common laborers.

Chairman Porter declares that the drafted men are being held for duty across the Pacific "absolutely without justification in law." It is time, he added, "for Congress to seriously challenge this extraordinary use of the army. If our soldiers can be sent to Siberia without authorization of law, they can be sent anywhere. These men volunteered or were drafted for the war against Germany. Nearly a year has elapsed since the armistice was signed, and now they are being used absolutely against their will to combat a people we have no cause against. They have suffered great hardships and they should be brought home without delay. An explanation is due the American people."

"The President received us nicely, but did not give us any definite promise as to when our boys would be permitted to come home," said Fred McAvoy, head of a Chicago delegation which called upon him in protest. "He

Life Was a Misery

Mrs. F. M. Jones, of Palmer, Okla., writes:

"From the time I entered into womanhood . . . I looked with dread from one month to the next. I suffered with my back and bearing-down pain, until life to me was a misery. I would think I could not endure the pain any longer, and I gradually got worse. . . . Nothing seemed to help me until, one day, . . . I decided to

The Woman's Tonic

"I took four bottles," Mrs. Jones goes on to say, "and was not only greatly relieved, but can truthfully say that I have not a pain. . . .

"It has now been two years since I took Cardu, and I am still in good health. . . . I would advise any woman or girl to use Cardu who is a sufferer from any female trouble."

If you suffer pain caused from womanly trouble, or if you feel the need of a good strengthening tonic to build up your run-down system, take the advice of Mrs. Jones. Try Cardu. It helped her. We believe it will help you.

FRAUD CHARGED AGAINST FORMER LOCAL CONCERN

Through attorneys Harkins & Hawkins of Prestonsburg, Ky., Dr. G. L. Howard, local physician, today brought suit in the Mason Circuit Court against the E. L. Manchester Produce Co. and the State National Bank. The plaintiff charges that he purchased through an agent of the Produce Company 5 shares of the capital stock of the company giving therefor his note for $500. He says that the company repudiated this sale and did not deliver to him the stock but that they attempted to collect the note from him through the State National Bank. He said he demanded the note's return and after a time procured it. Later, however, he contracted for 5 more shares and again gave his note for $500 in payment but that the stock was not delivered to him. He states that the company, however, unlawfully, illegally and without right, attempted to assign the note to the defendant, the State National Bank. It prays judgment that the note be cancelled and set aside as null and void and that the attempted assignment of the note to the State National Bank be cancelled and set aside as null and void and that he be given his costs and all proper and general relief.

Messrs. Scott Stevenson and George Rhodes of Murphyville, were business visitors here Monday.

MOTHER PREPARING CHILDREN FOR SCHOOL WHEN KILLED

Graphic Story of Double Tragedy of Former Maysville Man and Wife Is Told.

The Cincinnati Enquirer tells the following story of the murder of Mrs. Con Guilfoyle and the suicide of her husband in Cincinnati Monday:

Instead of preparing today to answer the call of the school bell next week, Alma and Adelaide Guilfoyle, 13 and 7 years old, respectively, mourn their mother and father, both victims of a domestic tragedy enacted yesterday.

The mother, Mrs. Una Guilfoyle, 32 years old, 7 Park Row, Mt. Auburn, was shot and killed when in her home by her husband, Con A. Guilfoyle, 38 years old, a foreman at the Proctor & Gamble Company plant, who then ended his life by firing a bullet through his head. Mrs. Guilfoyle was washing clothes, which her daughters expected to wear to school next Monday, when her husband, from whom she had been separated, entered the house.

"Were you out last night?" Guilfoyle was heard to say.

Then came the shots. One bullet passed through the wife's left temple and she fell dead. Two more missed her body. Guilfoyle then fired two bullets into the back of his head. He died shortly thereafter at General Hospital.

Upon seeing Guilfoyle enter the house, Mrs. Martha Weaver, his mother-in-law, started down a stairway to stop him, but the younger Guilfoyle child had told her father where her mother was at work. Examination of the room indicated Mrs. Guilfoyle had tried to escape from her husband by plunging through a glass door.

The wife had been working as night cashier in a down-town restaurant since the separation. Guilfoyle had been living at 229 West Court street for two months. Last Saturday night Guilfoyle took his children to a pleasure resort. The following night he visited his wife and almost choked her to death, accusing her of having associated with other men, it was said.

Coroner Bauer was informed Mrs. Guilfoyle had filed a suit for divorce and that Guilfoyle had been paying $6 a week temporary alimony to the care of his children. The Guilfoyles were natives of Eastern Kentucky.

Records in Domestic Relations Court show Mrs. Guilfoyle's suit for divorce was filed January 27 last, gross neglect and cruelty being charged. The case was heard in April and taken under advisement, but no entry, either of divorce or of dismissal, has been made.

John C. Rogers, who filed the suit, said Mrs. Guilfoyle had requested him last week to obtain another hearing if possible.
